The Honourable Company: A History Of The English East India Company

In 1600, the East India Company was granted a royal charter by Queen Elizabeth I, allowing it to trade with the East Indies for 21 years. The company was initially formed as a loose association of Elizabethan tradesmen, who were not always affiliated with the company. The Honourable Company grew from a loose association of Elizabethan tradesmen into "the grandest society of merchants in the universe". As a commercial enterprise it came to control half the world's trade and as a political entity it administered an embryonic empire.
